New Smog Check Repair Only Station License Classification

Beginning August 1, 2012, a new Smog Check Repair Only station license becomes available. The new license allows stations to repair vehicles that fail a Smog Check inspection. Repair Only stations must meet minimum equipment requirements and employ at least one licensed Smog Check Repair Technician.

The Repair Only station license is part of an overall effort to restructure the Smog Check licensing programs. This new license is in addition to the already existing Test Only and Test and Repair station licenses. The restructure of the licensing programs also includes a new Smog Check Inspector license and a new Smog Check Repair Technician license. For more information and an application to become licensed as a Smog Check Repair Only station visit www.smog.check.ca.gov.
